ABOUT THE BOOK

WITHIN THE PAGES OF Black, White And Blue, Surviving the Sifting,

Redick reminisces on her unconventional upbringing and journey through the California Highway Patrol. Through humor, upbeat honesty, and a reverent spirit she shares her transformational life moments, important life lessons, and her personal journey battling racial identity in a world that saw her differently than she saw herself.

Powerful. Raw. Real.

What a motivating story for young African American girls to use as motivation to not give up on their dreams. But not just African American females, it is relatable to all in that it speaks to being different, having a difficult upbrings, faith, and facing obstacles; acknowledging we all have negative self-talk at some level.

Dr. Shebrena Hanna, U.S. Department of Homeland Security
